CNPLAW'S CHIA SHENGYOU, EDWIN SUCCESSFULLY ACTED FOR THE PLAINTIFFS IN A CLAIM BASED ON RESULTING TRUST

Posted on March 11, 2025

Category: Deals and cases

General disclaimer

This article is provided to you for general information and should not be relied upon as legal advice. The editor and the contributing authors do not guarantee the accuracy of the contents and expressly disclaim any and all liability to any person in respect of the consequences of anything done or permitted to be done or omitted to be done wholly or partly in reliance upon the whole or any part of the contents.

This is a follow up on a matter that we previously covered. For a summary of the case and decision, please click here.

The Straits Times recently featured one of the cases handled by our Partner, Chia Shengyou, Edwin. The case concerns a commercial property held by the late father and his only son, the surviving joint tenant ("the Defendant"), in joint tenancy. Our clients, the Plaintiffs (whom are siblings of the Defendant), were successful in obtaining a declaration that the property was held on resulting trust by the Defendant on their behalf. The decision was upheld on appeal.

The matter was also previously reported by Today, Channel News Asia, and Lianhe Zaobao.

The lawyer involved in this case was: Chia Shengyou, Edwin.

When a surviving joint owner cannot own the whole property

General disclaimer

This article is provided to you for general information and should not be relied upon as legal advice. The editor and the contributing authors do not guarantee the accuracy of the contents and expressly disclaim any and all liability to any person in respect of the consequences of anything done or permitted to be done or omitted to be done wholly or partly in reliance upon the whole or any part of the contents.