The image shows the header of a newsletter. At the top, the 'cnplaw' logo is displayed with the tagline 'KNOWING • THINKING • SOLVING Across Asia'. Below the logo, the word 'CNPupdate' is written in a large, bold, orange font. Underneath this, a dark grey banner contains the text 'CNPLaw's Dispute Resolution team has contributed to the Singapore chapter in The Dispute Resolution Review for the third year'. At the bottom of the banner, there is a small photo of three people (two men and one woman) in professional attire, followed by the text 'Authors See Tow Soo Ling, Subramanian Pillai, Venetia Tan, and Ervin Roe'.

CNPLaw's dispute resolution team authored the Singapore chapter in the 13th edition of the Dispute Resolution Review. This review is published by The Law Reviews and covers an overview of civil court systems of 28 jurisdictions. It provides a guide to those who are faced with disputes across international boundaries.

The Singapore chapter touched on issues such as an overview of the dispute resolution framework, the year in review, court procedures, legal practice, documents and the protection of privilege, and alternatives to litigation such as arbitration, mediation and other forms of dispute resolution.
