On 21 April 2020, the Multi-Ministry Taskforce announced stricter circuit breaker measures and an extension of the circuit breaker period by four weeks to 1 June 2020 (inclusive).

The various Ministries and statutory boards have made press releases elaborating on the above. The following are the key highlights.

Ministry of Trade and Industry (“MTI”)

Tightened list of services

Less critical consumer services will be suspended from 21 April 2020, 2359 hours. These services include F&B outlets that sell only beverages, packaged snacks, confectioneries, or desserts (but exclude those in hawker centres, food courts and coffee shops) and F&B outlets (including food vending machines) in parks. Online sale of these products is still allowed, provided that the orders can be fulfilled from the licensed central kitchen, manufacturing facility or warehouse of the F&B establishment. The manufacturing facility must not be in the following list:

Patrons visiting popular malls and supermarkets must furnish particulars for contact tracing. For workplace premises which remain open, in addition to the various measures already announced, they are encouraged to use SafeEntry, a digital check-in application, that logs workers' entry into and exit from workplaces. More information about this can be found at go.gov.sg/safeentry. In relation to foreign workers, with effect from 21 April 2020, 2359 hours, daily movement of workers in and out of all dormitories will not be allowed, including workers living in the dormitories who had earlier been allowed to commute to work.

The circuit breaker period which was originally to last until 4 May 2020 (inclusive) has been extended by four weeks and will last until 1 June 2020 (inclusive). Businesses which had received approvals by the MIT earlier during the original circuit breaker period can continue their operations. The MIT will notify those businesses that have to suspend operations.
